台灣、中國之旅 Trip to Taiwan and China

一個改變生命的旅程
一個實踐愛心的機會

A life-changing Experience

A love-in-action Opportunity

在西安，我教那些貧困的孩子英語，然而，我從他們身上學到的，卻遠遠超過我教他們的。他們讓我看見，快樂並不在於你擁有什麼，而在於一份真誠的人際關係，一份讓你可以從容地表達自己的關係。在沒有害怕、沒有疑慮、只有接納的情況下，我和這些小孩之間的互動，帶出了喜樂和生命。這才是真正的財富。單純的快樂是透過人與人之間的連繫而來的。

我們要孩子們想想，最叫他們感謝的是什麼。讓我們深受感動的是，大部份同學的首選是自己的老師。很多我在美國的朋友對學校諸多不滿，甚至厭惡，卻不曉得，能夠有學習的機會，事實上是份榮幸！

The manual labor: milking goats, cutting grasses, was agonizing, yet, after seeing all the kids doing a better job of the same manual work I was doing, I saw how privileged I was to be who I am today, being able to walk without problem, being in extremely good health, and having a caring family. I also saw how unfit I was too. The people I previously thought who was the least qualified to teach me things ended up teaching me so much about myself, my personality, and my weaknesses. I knew I had to be more grateful and to be less of a complainer of my "conditions".

Project Ascent* has definitely been the most influential and life changing experience I have ever had. From Bethany Home for mental-challenged children, I learned the purity of raw emotions. There, I felt true joy just be with the kids as I watched them smile, heard them laugh and sing, or held their hands. I saw that although our lives are different, we still have many similarities and at the end of the day, we are all human. There is no real reason for the separation of these wonderful beings that are just as talented as we are. They possess many strengths that I do not have and the idea that they are taken away from "regular" life really disappoints me.
